Individual papers and panels are now being accepted on topics related to any aspect of European popular culture and literature for the 37th annual Southwest Popular/American Culture Association to be held in Albuquerque, NM.

Scholars, graduate students, instructors, and others interested in European popular culture and literature are invited to participate. Graduate student presenters are eligible for travel fellowships and award opportunities for best papers. Find a list of graduate student awards here: http://southwestpca.org/conference/graduate-student-awards/. The Euro Pop Award for a European Cultural Issue is of special interest to this subject area. The Euro Pop Award is presented to the graduate student with the best presentation about European popular culture. Contact Jack J. Hutchens for more information (jackhutchens@yahoo.com). Other awards of note for graduate students in this area are the Diana Cox Award for Images of Women (Monica Ganas, Mganas@apu.edu), and the Post Script Graduate Student Award in Film Studies (Lynnea Chapman King, lynneaking@hotmail.com and Tobias Hochscherf, tobias.hochscherf@fh-kiel.de).

Please send abstracts of 250-300 words directly to the online submission database at http://conference2016.southwestpca.org/ by November 1, 2015.

If you plan to propose a panel or roundtable session, make sure that each person's abstract is entered individually into the database. Each panel abstract should also include the panel title and the name of the panel chair.
